ATR VERDICT: SOUTHBANK handles Polytrack well and, having won off higher marks before, he looks a tempting proposition on these terms. Walking On Clouds was only a half-length behind the selection when they clashed over C&D in April and is a key player, despite his best all-weather form being posted elsewhere. Chasing Gold also has the ability to go close but he often gets upset in the stalls.

Top Tip: SOUTHBANK (2)

Watch out for: WALKING ON CLOUDS (5)

Long Handicap: Bossing It 9 - 11

ATR VERDICT: PUTAPOUNDINTHEJAR added to two hurdles wins last year when successful on the Flat at Bellewstown this spring and subsequently finished a creditable fifth in a valuable handicap hurdle at the Punchestown Festival. Eoin McCarthy has two strong contenders with Wholelotofbusiness and Fast Felix, who are closely matched on their at Killarney encounter last time. Bossing It indicated a return to form at Wexford last time, while Becasse hails from a yard in good form.

ATR VERDICT: Astrological stepped forward from a promising debut second at Wolverhampton when winning cosily at the same venue on his next start. A mark of 72 is manageable for his handicap bow and a bold showing looks likely. However, given the runner-up has won since, there is a bit more substance to CHARLES DARNAY's win at Kempton and he shades the vote with further progression likely. Starship Trooper is the pick of the rest.

ATR VERDICT: WHISPERING WILLOW looks more progressive than her rivals and can take this contest. The selection made a successful start for Gavin Cromwell when taking a Punchestown handicap hurdle in decisive fashion before going close on her chasing debut at Downpatrick. Tropical Image won over hurdles here last September and was not disgraced on her chasing bow when reappearing at Killarney. Walk Away Harry landed a bumper at the Punchestown Festival in 2023 and while without a win since, did hold a career high rating of 113 over hurdles.

The son of Mehmas hit the woodwork on his debut at Newmarket having been well backed, but that form looks strong as the winner probably would have followed up at Yarmouth were it not for a late mishap. Storm Blade, who is a full-brother to the useful Storm Star, is one to respect, likewise Final Objective.

ATR VERDICT: JESSE EVANS has been second in both a Galway Hurdle and Galway Plate and is probably building towards the big summer festival again. The selection has proved a great servant to connections with ten career wins and is well treated here at the weights. Blood Destiny has more on his plate than when easily justifying odds of 1/8 in this race 12 months ago and has to give weight all round after winning a Grade 3 at Naas in February. Eagle Fang probably has more scope for improvement than his rivals and reverts back to fences after two solid efforts in competitive staying handicap hurdles.

ATR VERDICT: Chasse Patate split rivals rated 73 and 78 when third on her introduction at Kempton, and that level of form looks useful in the context of this race. Star Banner probably achieved similar on his racecourse bow and is considered along with Perola, who already has a number of creditable efforts to his name. However, a chance can be taken on KENNINGTON. On his first outing, Hughie Morrison's gelding went largely unbacked on the all-weather track here in April but he still finished a respectable third, and improvement is likely now sent onto the grass.

Enda Bolger's charge asserted in the closing stages when beating that rival by a length and a half and was nicely on top late on. What Path had every chance jumping the second last that day and is entitled to be bang there again. Asphalt Cowboy was a good winner at Downpatrick 10 days ago and is another who could come into the mix now. Ambitious Fellow, fifth in the Champion Hunters at Punchestown, is also respected.

Tattie Bogle is likely to prove popular and rightly so, given that he has a win and a second in the book from his last three starts. The form of that impressive victory has worked out well and he may be worth siding with despite the absence. Thelittleballerina was an easy winner at Clonmel in April and she looks like an obvious danger. Minnatrix was well beaten when falling over timber on his return at Killarney three weeks ago, but had been runner-up in a Roscommon bumper on debut last year and could reach the frame.

ATR VERDICT: This is competitive and only a tentative vote is for WAVE ROCK, who gained the success her solid course second in April deserved when keeping on gamely here last month. She also scored here in February and is quickly becoming a bit of a course specialist. Fellow last-start winner Imola is a model of consistency and commands respect, while chances are also given to Pearly Squirrel, Phaedra and Romantic Spirit.

Top Tip: WAVE ROCK (6)

Watch out for: IMOLA (5)

ATR VERDICT: AGE OF TIME could be the way to go. A past C&D scorer, the gelding was in really good nick earlier in the year and, freshened up following a break, he could quite easily win a race of this nature. Book Of Life and King Of Speed boast similar profiles and have also tasted success over track and trip before.

Top Tip: AGE OF TIME (4)

Watch out for: BOOK OF LIFE (9)
